Judging Process

Each year, Clio appoints top creatives and marketers from around the world to serve on our distinct juries. Clio selects individuals whose own creative work epitomizes the best of their respective fields, ensuring that each juror has an in-depth understanding of the industry’s evolving marketplace.

The Clio judging process is known for its diplomatic approach to recognizing creative excellence. All jurors have an equal say in decisions, and the majority vote rules. Judging criteria across all programs is creativity, with the exception of the Creative Effectiveness & Creative Business Transformation Medium—judging for these mediums are weighted 50% on creativity and 50% on results.

Creativity, n. [kree-ey-tiv-i-tee] The application of an idea that is unexpected, imaginative or otherwise unconventional.

Some of the questions jurors are asked to think about include:

• Is this work bold? Innovative? Inspiring?
• How is this work propelling the industry forward? What do I want to signal to the industry by awarding this work?

Juries will review all of the entries submitted within their assigned medium types. They participate in preliminary rounds of judging individually followed by a final round of judging to determine the awards given to each piece – Gold, Silver, Bronze, Shortlist.

During the judging process there is no minimum or maximum number of statues that need to be awarded. The jury reserves the right to award as many or as few entries as they see fit in a particular medium or category. This ensures that the work is not judged against each other, but simply by it’s own merit.
